DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Barrett (U.S. 5,368,914).

See the abstract and element 20.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Barrett (U.S. 5,368,914) in view of Brambach (U.S. 5,186,999).

Barrett teaches a laminate with two outer metal layers and a resin core with an intermediate reinforcement layer as noted above. Brambach teaches forming a core with reinforcement by injecting resin into the core between two outer sheets (abstract). The instant invention claims forming a laminate with a core and intermediate layer by injection molding resin in to the core. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have formed the core and sheets of Barrett by injection molding as this is taught as one of a limited number of ways to form such a laminate by Brambach. Use of any know laminate intermediate reinforcing layer such as a mesh or perforated sheet would have been within the ordinary skill of the art absent unexpected results.
